In early November, Major Tarazov, representative of the GSFG Kech in Wunsdorf at the Hq 24th Air Army in Werder, gave orders that a small dismantable standardized wooden building would be constructed. The building was to be about 10 meters long and to consist of two rooms, one of them to be used as living and sleeping room, the second as storage room and kitchen. The first prefabricated building of this type was sent to the radar installation at No 62, 1.35 km south-southeast of the church of Glindow. Further such buildings were dispatched to various airforce installations in the GDR. In late February 1955, two such buildings were sent to Graefenheinichen.

 Comment. Major Tarazov is known to be a liaison officer with the Hq 24th Air Army. It is believed that the buildings mentioned will be used for Soviet radio and radar installations. Information on the radar installation near Glindow was transmitted previously.
